CASE STUDY: GLOBAL REFUGEE ACADEMY

The Global Refugee Academy provides high school aged students with continuous access to education without walls or borders.

CHALLENGE

For many refugees the first challenge is keeping the family together and gathering necessary resources for basic survival. Once this challenge is met, families try to institute a day-to-day structure similar to home. For those with children this is providing a high-quality education. However being in a new country can prove difficult in finding the right school, speaking the local languages, among other challenges. Refugees need an education system that remains constant as they relocate.
